

Guaire Magazine Privacy Statement

Guaire Magazine aims to provide a safe and creative environment for all users of its website. For this reason, Guaire Magazine is committed to safeguarding your privacy. We endeavor to protect our users' information through compliance with the Data Protection Acts 1988 and 2003.

It is the intention of this Privacy Policy ("the Policy") to explain to you the online information practices of Guaire Magazine in relation to the information we collect about you and other users. This Policy also sets out the standards we require of you and other Guaire Magazine website users in order to ensure that the privacy of all our users is protected to the greatest extent possible.

You should not use this site (or allow children under your control or supervision to use this site) if you are not happy with this policy.

Information we collect:

This website, www.guaire.org, is an initiative that is designed, created and coordinated by Guaire Magazine to promote and inform the public about our work as well as to engage Guaire Magazine' audience.

Personal Information

When using our online booking forms for contest workshops, Guaire Magazine collects such personal information about you and/or your child as is necessary to confirm a booking for an event in line with our booking policies and procedures. Our booking policies and procedures are advised when events are announced. This information is confidential and not shared with any other party.

How your information is used:

Guaire Magazine does not sell or rent or give to any third party whatsoever any personally identifiable information about you.

It is, however, our policy to co-operate with law enforcement authorities and with parties trying to enforce their legal rights. Therefore, if a law enforcement official or such a third party asks us for information about you, we may disclose that information where we think it appropriate to do so, e.g. in the case of a child protection concern. This is standard industry practice.

Updating, verifying and deleting your information/alteration of data:

You may inform us of any changes in your personal data and in accordance with our obligations under the Data Protection Acts 1988 and 2003 we will update and/or delete your personal data accordingly.

To find out what personal data we hold on you and/or your child, or to have your personal data updated, amended or removed from our database, please email it to us at guairemagazine@gmail.com or write to the Data Protection Officer, Guaire Magazine, Tubber Road, Gort. Any such data requests may be subject to the fee prescribed in the Data Protection Acts 1988 and 2003.

Security:

Guaire Magazine uses industry standard security measures to protect your information and to prevent the loss, misuse or alteration of any information in our control. We will always use our best efforts to ensure that such information is kept as secure as possible. We take our security responsibilities very seriously, including by employing appropriate physical and technical security measures are in place.

It is possible, however, that any information or message you send to the site may be intercepted or read by others. We cannot accept responsibility and shall accept no liability whatsoever for loss, injury or damage occasioned by the interception by third parties of your transmissions, or the disclosure of information, nor do we offer any guarantees, warranties or indemnities as to the security or otherwise of any information which you give us.

Amendments of this Policy:

This Policy may change from time to time, and any changes to this Policy will be posted on the website and will be effective when posted. Please check back regularly for any amendments.
